Museum News:

- Museum opened March with an art exhibit from the South Carolina Governor’s School of Science & Math, part of a nationwide celebration of art programs and student art during National Youth Art Month. Patz Fowle, Visual Arts Coordinator and art instructor at GSSM says, “Art is a strong, unifying element within a community. Creative collaboration between the Hartsville Museum and the South Carolina Governor’s School for Science & Math is a beautiful, beneficial bridge that connects our community, through art, education, and culture.”
- On display through April is a Folk Art exhibit from former Hartsville native, Willie “Big Mook” Johnson featuring over 25 pieces of original artwork.
- “Women’s History Month Project” on social media featured information about eight interesting and important women from Hartsville’s history. These women were: Susan Stout Coker, May Roper Coker, Jannie Harriot, Rachel Gardner Hodges, Flossie Hopkins, Adlena Graham, Brandolyn Thomas Pinkston and Shannon Johnson.
- March Lecture Series welcomed back: Pressly Coker, President of Coker Farms National Historic Landmark. Pressly shared more stories about Coker Pedigreed Seed Company and the impact it had on the people and the city of Hartsville.
- First school group tour in over a year. 8th grade from Thomas Hart Academy enjoyed touring the museum and a behind the scenes tour of the Museum’s Collection Room at the Edition.
- March Donations included:

- Linda Cooper: Wide brimmed black felt hat belonging to her mother, Bessie Peterson. Mrs. Peterson was a "Church Mother" at Jerusalem Baptist Church. One autographed book, "My Life with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.", by Coretta Scott King.
- James Daniel Chaplin: 16 Presidential Campaign buttons including Willkie/McNary, McGovern/Eagleton, Clinton/Gore, Johnson/Humphrey, Elect Kerry, Elect Al Sharpton and Gore/Lieberman.
